MURDER CHARGE REDUCED; SENTENCED TO NINE MONTHS

On Tuesday of last week Thomas Frank Reagan, of Wainwright, was placed on his trial at the Criminal Court in Edmonton on a charge of attempted murder of Harry Barnes at Wainwright on the night of August 10th, 1924.

A wife's continued infidelity and a forgiving husband who went to see if they could once more, for the third time have a reconciliation, was the story told to the court. Instead of effecting a reconciliation, he declared he discovered further adultery, resulting later in the charge of attempted murder against Reagan.

Mr. H. McDonald, K. C., acted for the defendant, while Crown Prosecutor E. B. Cogswell, K. C. had charge of the case for the crown.

After hearing all witnesses and after the accused himself had been placed in the witness box to tell his story the case was adjourned until Wednesday morning. J. A. Davis, Sydney Ottewill, W. D. Clark, J. W. Ross, R. P. Spies and T. V. Michel were on the jury.

Harry Barnes, who bore a scar on the right side of his face, told in the witness box of accused entering the house and shooting him. He admitted that he had been cohabiting for two weeks with Mrs. Reagan, and also that he knew the woman was a party to divorce proceedings which had not been made absolute.

Mrs. Reagan, sister of Mrs. Reagan's child, told the court that accused house, with her own and Mrs. Reagan's child, told the court that accused came swiftly into the house with a revolver in his hand. He spoke to Barnes for about half a minute and then pulled the trigger when about two or three feet away. Barnes was sitting down at the time; the revolver fired once; Reagan shot again. Barnes commenced to rise from the chair and fell with a shot through the cheek. Under cross-examination by Hugh McDonald, K. C., for the defence, witness eventually admitted that Mrs. Reagan and accused had lived in the house for two weeks, that her sister had committed adultery at other times, and was the mother of a child when accused was in France during the war.

"Did Reagan say he wanted to commit suicide?" asked Mr. McDonald. "Yes, and that he wanted to 'get' Barnes," was the reply.

"Turn me loose and let me shoot my self," were the words Reagan used after shooting Barnes, declared Frank Chancellor, the next witness, husband of the former witness, who was present at the shooting and who grabbed the gun. He recounted the actual shooting as it took place on August 19, and stated that accused appeared to be very excited.

Dr. Middlemass of Wainwright related how he was called to the scene of the shooting and found Barnes with a wound through the cheek. Dr. Tatham, of Edmonton, described the injuries, stating that they were not serious.

That he found accused in the guard room of the detachment was the evidence of Constable Moses, of the A.P. at Wainwright. Reagan told him that he meant to "get" Barnes, and then himself, in front of his wife. Later Reagan said he would not have shot Barnes if Barnes would have taken back the alleged words: "If she won't throw that guy out, I will!" But he said in that Yankee fashion, "Well

NATIONAL SYSTEM WILL BREAK EVEN FOR ANOTHER YEAR

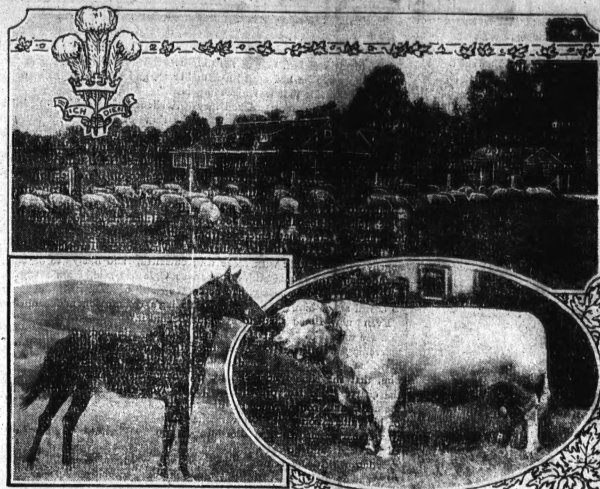

The prediction that, in spite of a decrease on gross revenue, the present year would be closed by the National system in practically the same position as was the case a year ago, was made by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways. Sir Henry added that his hope that the year would produce net earnings of $30,000,000 had been blasted by the depression of the business but that the system would certainly do as well as last year.

Sir Henry again urged the appointment of a federal minister of immigration in order that the work in this connection being carried on by the railway systems and other organizations may be co-ordinated. "We have got to stop talking immigration and do something if we are ever going to get any where," he declared.

E. P. Ranch Improving Western Stock

The way to approach the E.P. ranch is from Calgary to High River, 40 miles south, on the Canadian Pacific Railway. From High River one has to drive southwest a distance of 35 miles through one of the richest grain-growing and stock-raising countries in North America. In the distance the jagged peaks of the Rockies dip the clouds and below, well-wooded, are the foothills. The road cuts through the centre of the "Bar-U" ranch and about one mile and a half from the limits of the "Bar-U" the low rambling bungalow where the Prince is now living is seen through a pretty glen. It is a homelike looking place typical of many a rancher's home in "Sunny Alberta." Here His Royal Highness goes "back to the land."

The Prince of Wales has never ceased to exhibit a keen interest in his ranch, and fresh indications are periodically given of the importance he attaches to it and the work it is doing. After purchasing the ranch, and before returning to England, the Prince made arrangements for the shipment of some of the best stock in the British Isles to the Canadian West. Thoroughbred horses came from the Royal stables, Shorthorn from the King's farm, Shropshire sheep from the Duke of West-

MR. J. G. CLARK ON TEACHING STAFF OF VERMILION S. O. A.

The British boys who arrived last week at the Vermilion school of Agriculture were all housed and boarded at the school assembly hall and one of the class rooms being converted into dormitories and the room used for domestic science utilized for kitchen and dining room. All requirements for the latter purposes have been at the school since it opened while equipment for dormitories is now being delivered from Edmonton and Winnipeg.

Addresses of welcome with encouragement and advice were given to the student body by Principal Elliott, Deputy Minister Craig, Mayor Morrison, President Cooper of the board of trade and J. G. Clark, of Irma, who will be a member of the teaching staff.

Herds of different grades of cattle, sheep, horses poultry and young stock for feeding purposes have been placed on the farm within the past few days and these will be used for demonstration purposes.

While there will be a good deal of class work, most of the instruction will be along lines of practical farm work. Mr. Clark will have charge of animal husbandry and cattle. C. Whibread will teach agronomy and soil culture and will have general supervision over the farm work. Instruction will also be given in wood and iron work, engines and farm mechanics generally. The whole idea of the scheme is to give these boys the advantage of practical farm experience in every sense possible.

CONVENTION OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

The Wainwright constituency W. I. will be held in Edmonton on Friday, November 7th, both afternoon and evening. Mrs. J. R. Love will be the afternoon speaker, while Mrs. Hynek, of Strome will give the evening address. A programme is being arranged with ladies from Wainwright, Edmonton, and Chas. Wainwright. Mrs. Church will officiate at the organ and every one is welcome.

"Don't be misled! This summer won't last all winter. Take home a copy of Black Diamond coal from the Atlas yard the next time you come to town."

LEADER OF B. C. DOUKHOBOR COLONY KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Six were killed and many injured in an accident caused by explosion on Friday last on the Kettle Valley railway. Peter Verigin, head of the Doukhobor colony in British Columbia; J. I. Mackie, member of the provincial legislature for Grand Forks, and three other persons as yet unidentified, were killed on board a Canadian Pacific railway passenger train when a gas tank in the first-class coach line exploded. Ten persons were injured, according to a report given out.

The train left Nelson last night and the accident occurred when it was west of Farron Station.

The unidentified dead included a Doukhobor man, a Doukhobor woman and another man. Besides wrecking the coach and burning the occupants, the explosion set fire to the train. The train was consumed. The rest of the train was uninjured. Two of the victims were killed outright, two died on the way to Castlegar and another on the final stage to Nelson.

After the explosion the rest of the train proceeded to Grand Forks with coast-bound passengers and with Superintendent W. O. Miller in charge. The gas tank that exploded was the large cylinder used under day coaches containing illuminating gas for the lamps, the gas being obtained in Vancouver in sealed containers. This said to be one of the first accidents of this nature recorded.

NELSON, B.C., Both gas tanks on the day coach of the Kettle Valley railway car which was wrecked by an explosion near Farron having been found intact, railway officials here now declare that the accident must have been caused by high explosives which caused such terrific damage as to blow bodies clear out of the car.

Police are investigating rumors that the explosion might have been the result of a plot to destroy the Doukhobor leader.

"Yes, it certainly is fine weather just right to get your coal bill filled with Black Diamond from the Atlas yard."

THAT'S DIFFERENT

An editor and a merchant were discussing the value of billboard advertising. The merchant contended that more people read the billboards than the newspapers. After a lengthy conversation in which neither man would give in, they parted. The next week the merchant came tearing down the street to the newspaper office wanting to know why the obituary notice of his wife's mother was not in the paper. The newspaper editor had seen that a copy was taken to the newspaper office. "Well," said the editor, "I knew you wanted the obituary read by the people so I took it and nailed it on your billboard."

The next week a half page ad. appeared in the newspaper in question—Crabbrook Courier.

WORK GOES STEADILY ALONG AT THE BRIT. PETS. CAMP

Little fresh news has come out from any of the B.P. camps during the week. B.P. Number 3 is said to be into a 35 or 38-foot light sand but no production forecast has been made. A sample of the sand brought to town shows a much lighter quality than either Number Two or Four B.P.

The casing at Number Three is to be set and a test planned. Opinions differ on the probable production of Number Three. One expert claims they will have lots of gas, with some light oil and considerable water. Others believe a generous flow of light oil will be established. Drilling has been carried to a depth of 2100 feet it is said.

The result will be awaited with interest, as the reclaiming of this well will go far in re-establishing faith in this section of the field.

B.P. Number 4 is still flowing a little heavy crude after tubing with 2 inch. A heavy duty pumping plant to operate Numbers 2 and 4 wells is on the ground and being erected of service. Various estimates have been rendered on the probable production of Number 4 on the pump. These range all the way from 50 to 1000 barrels per day. B.P. Number 5 is rigging up and should be ready for drilling very soon.

GEORGE M. HALL FORMER COMMISSIONER SEES FUTURE FOR FIELD

George M. Hall, who back in 1914 was publicity commissioner for the city of Edmonton and one of the Edmontonians who had been in the oil business, is now in the city of Wainwright. He is now in the city of Wainwright. He is now in the city of Wainwright.

Mr. Hall spent considerable time at the B.P. wells and had this to say: "The field looks good to me for three reasons: They have oil in Number Four wells. I caught a bottle of it as it flowed under gas pressure. There is a quantity, flow, which if maintained is large enough to be profitable. Timing the flow showed at least 50 barrels a day, which is likely to be greatly increased by pumping."

"The oil is good fuel; they were burning it under the boiler with good results. It is clearly oil with an asphalt base. Actual analysis will show its commercial contents. I intend to have my sample analyzed."

"It is not invariable, or even usual for oil to be found after the comparatively small amount of exploratory work that has been done in this field. Some 300 wells were put down in Oklahoma before a good well was brought in. This field has shown oil in 'heavily every well' and gas in all."

STILL MORE RIGID INSPECTION OF GRAIN IS RECOMMENDED

OTTAWA.—Not the utter abolition of the mixing of grain, but a more rigid inspection of the product, thus treated will, it is believed, be a provision of the new Grain Act to be revised in the next session in the light of the recommendations by the royal commission which made the inquiry.

The evidence on this point in the west was conflicting: Some of the farmer's organizations took the stand that the mixing of grain is technically preferable and United Grain Elevators are quality inferior to a similarly graded article. On the other hand, the Co-operative and United Grain Elevator are themselves in the mixing business and by them and the grain exchange the argument is put forward that such methods of treatment utilize a quantity of grain for which otherwise there would be no market.

The question is bound to be one of the main themes of the commission's report, and in view of the great extent of the mixing business and the capital invested it is not likely to be done away with. Very rigid inspection however, will be applied to the product thus treated to ensure the maintenance of proper grades.

ST ANDREW'S CHURCH WELD ANNIVERSARY MONDAY NIGHT

The annual anniversary supper of the congregation of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church, was held in the basement of the church building on Monday evening last and was largely attended; the good things which the I. A. C. had provided being done full justice to by all present.

After the supper the company adjourned upstairs into the church to enjoy a lecture by the Pastor, Rev. J. McLagan, based upon "The Tale of Two Cities" by Dickens, this being illustrated by many beautiful lantern slides.

This was made possible by a kindly loan from the department of extension of the University of Alberta, and the whole affair proved truly enjoyable as well as instructive and educational.

"Captain Blood"

BUCCANEER.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD, BUCCANEER," a Vitaphone picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"That's mighty condescending of you."

Lord Julian ignored the obvious scarcely.

"It's an odd coincidence that we should have been brought together in this fashion, considering that I came out to the Indies especially to seek you." And he proceeded to explain himself and his mission.

"You're my guest aboard this ship," said Captain Blood, "and I still have some notion of decent behavior left me from other days, thief, and pirate though I may be. So I'll not be telling you what I think of you for daring to bring me this offer, or of my Lord

Sunderland since he's your kinsman for having the impudence to send it.

But it does not surprise me at all that one who is a minister of James Stuart should conceive that every man is to be seduced by bribes into betraying those who trust him."

"Again you misapprehend me," cried Lord Julian, "between concern and indignation. That is not intended

Your followers will be included your commission."

"And I've think they'll go with me to hunt their brethren—the Brethren of the Coast? Dye think I could take a commission of King James's I tell you I wouldn't be soiling my hands with it—chief and pirate's hands though they be. Thief and pirate. Is what you heard Miss Bishop call me today—a thing of scorn and outcast.

And who made me that? Who made me thief and pirate? Dye dream, man.

What it is to be a slave? But there I grow hot for nothing at all. I explain myself, I think, and God knows, it is not my custom. I am grateful to you,

Lord Julian, for your kindly intentions.

I am so. But ye'll understand, perhaps Ye look as if ye might."

Lord Julian stood a moment, watching the tall figure as it moved away towards the taffrail. Then letting his arms fall helplessly to his sides in dejection, he departed.

Chapter XVIIITHE SERVICE OF KING JAMES

Miss Arabella Bishop was aroused very early on the following morning by the brazen voice of a bugle and the missing clanging of a bell in the ship's belfry. In his cabin Lord Julian was already astir and hurriedly dressing. About him in the waist, where all last night had been so peaceful.

there was a friendly active bustle of some three-score men. By the rail immediately above and behind Lord

Julian, stood Captain Blood in altercation with a one-eyed giant, whose head was swathed in a red cotton kerchief, whose heavy blue shirt hung open at the waist. As his lordship moving forward, revealed himself their voices ceased, and Blood turned to greet him.

"Good morning to you," he said and added, "I've blundered badly, so I have. I should have known better than to crowd about him."

Even now Blood had no eyes for what he turned to look at Miss Bishop marvelling a little, after the manner in which yesterday she had avoided him, that she should now venture up the quarter-deck. Her presence at this moment, and considering the nature of his altercation with Wolverstone, was embarrassing. Captain Blood barred his head and bowed silently in a greeting which she returned compos-edly and formally.

"What is happening, Lord Julian she enquired.

"As if to answer her a third gun spoke from the ships.

"They are ships of the Jamaica fleet his lordship answered her.

Before more could be added, their attention was drawn at last to Ogle, who came bounding up the broad ladder, and to the men lounging all in his wake, Blood, confronted him.

"What's this?" the Captain demanded sharply. "Your station is on the gun-deck. Why have you left it?"

"Captain," Ogle said, and as he said he pointed to the pursuing ships

"Colonel Bishop holds us. We're in no case either to run or fight."

"Ogle," said he, in a voice cold and sharp as steel, "your station is on the gun-deck. You'll return to it at once and take your crew with you, or else

"Threats will not serve, Captain."

Captain Blood's hand clamped over the butt of one of the pistols slung before him.

"Nor will that serve you," Ogle warned him, still more fiercely.

"The men are of my thinking, and they'll have their way."

"The odds be damned!" Wolver-stone thrust out his heavy jaw. "We-re'd used to odds. The odds were heavier at Maragby, yet we won out, and took three ships. They were heavier yesterday when we engaged Don Miguel!"

"Aye—but those were Spaniards."

"And what better are these?—Are ye afraid of a lubberly Barbadoes planter? Whatever ails you, Peter?

I've never known ye scared afore."

A gun boomed out behind them.

"That'll be the signal to lie to," said

Blood, in the same listless voice; and he fetched a sigh.

Wolverstone squared himself before his captain.

"I'll see Colonel Bishop in hell or ever I dies for him."

"Oh, but—by your leave," his lordship intervened, "surely there is nothing to be apprehended from Colonel

Bishop. Considering the service you have rendered to his niece and to me

... I assure you that my word counts for something in England."

"Oh, aye—in England. But this ain't England, damme," Wolverstone laughed.

Came the roar of a second gun, and a round shot splashed the water less than half a cable's length astern

Blood leaped over the rail to speak to the fair young man immediately below him by the helmsman at the whip staff.

"Did them take in sail, Jeremy?" he said quietly "We lie to." But Wolver-stone interposed again.

"Hold there a moment, Jeremy!"

he roared. "Wait! Captain and I followed faced, their glances met, sul-den defiance braving dull anger, surprise and pain.

"There is no question," said Blood,

"of surrender for any man aboard save only myself. If Bishop can report to England that I am taken and hanged he will magnify himself and at the same time, gratify his personal ran-gour against me. I'll send him a message offering to surrender aboard his ship, taking Miss Bishop and Lord

Brian with me, but only on condition that the Arabella is allowed to proceed unhindered. It's a bargain that he'll accept, if I know him at all."

"Ye're surely daft even to think of it, Peter!"

"Not so daft as you when you talk of fighting that." Before we've run another half-mile we shall be within

Wolverstone swore elaborately then suddenly checked. Out of the tail of his single eye he had espied a trim

the companion. So engrossed had they been that they had not seen Miss

Bishop come out forward from the door of the passage leading to the cabin. And there was something else that those three men on the poop, and Pitt, immediately below them, had failed to observe. Some moments ago

Ogle, followed by the main body of his gun-deck crew, had emerged from the booby hatch, to fall into muttered, angrily vehement talk with those who abandoning the gun-deck upon which they were laboring, had come to crowd about him.

Even now Blood had no eyes for

GUN CRIMES

BIG PROBLEM

It is a lamentable fact that, while Canada stands as one of the most wonderful countries in the world for opportunity and progress, we are drawing nearer and nearer to being classified among those of the most lawless people. There are more laws per capita on the statute books of Canada than perhaps in any other country.
There is a feeling that loose law enforcement prevails here as well in the United States. While Canada's attitude to the newcomer, the immigrant has been to play fair with the new citizen haven't we almost reached the limit of this "honour" policy?

Behind every defect in the enforcement of our laws, more dangerous than any fault in the machinery of the law, is a more powerful than any other factor in accounting for the number of crimes committed in this country is the apathy and indifference of the general public. The first great work to be accomplished in bringing about a better enforcement of law must be the awakening of the public to a clear sense of the situation and of their responsibility for it. Improvement in our laws can accomplish little unless accompanied by a determination on the part of our citizens to have those laws enforced.

In the old-fashioned New England states of the U.S. they have a Judge Thayer in Massachusetts who has rid two large cities of the commonwealth of violent crime. Both Springfield and Worcester had been enjoying a reign of terror in the streets both day and night before this judge applied his method. How did he manage to accomplish the impossible, which appalls ordinary citizens, baffles the police and perplexes the sociologists, even gives the sentimentalist pause?

Nothing simpler. He merely sends gunmen for life or long terms, and he denies them any probation. Any gunman arraigned and convicted before Judge Thayer gets twelve or four years without probation as a minimum first harvest in 1921, the people innocent, and as a maximum life sentence who had come from the old one to consequently gunmen no longer operate within the judge's jurisdiction and celebration Governor Bradford sent out four men to shoot wild fowl, and there is no use searching around for recondite remedies or vainly trying to debate reforms that will eradicate criminals before crime is committed all the company for about a week.
The simple truth is that, if some men live without working and on robbery and "get away with it," they will celebrate to an English friend—
"Our harvest being gotten in in our stop-gap devices are no good, government sent four men on fowling, searching round for exotic causes magical remedies gets nowhere. Stable, regular, old-time, plain justice without any amendments will do the trick. Put every gunman where he belonged: a long term in prison with no chance of getting out under twelve or fourteen years—that will do the business. Send them up! Lock them in!
Give them fourteen years with hard labor and no probation! Soak them and they'll quit being bad men, tough guys, gangsters! That is the only remedy, and it is simple.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving Day is older than the authentic records of history. For victory won, calamity survived, for good hunting, man was assuredly giving thanks long before he knew how to classify himself in the world in which he lived.

Newfoundland was the scene of the first recorded formal Thanksgiving service, held on the continent. That was in 1578 and it was conducted by a clergyman who accompanied the expedition which under Sir Martin Frobisher, a noted navigator and explorer, had brought the first English immigrants to settle in North America.

It is a far cry from that observance in the Ancient Colony to the Thanksgiving Day of the present generation.
To the youth of Canada the day is synonymous with holiday attractions, across turkey, and other appetizing delicacies. To their elders there is in-part of our citizens to have those laws
enforced.

There have been some changes in time and methods of observing the day on this continent, since Frobish-er's time, though the basic principle gave to it a coloring that has not faded entirely through succeeding centuries.
At the "ingathering" of the teen years without probation as a minimum, and as a maximum life sentence who had come from the old one to consequently gunmen no longer operate within the judge's jurisdiction
and celebration Governor Bradford sent out four men to shoot wild fowl, and there is no use searching around for recondite remedies or vainly trying to debate reforms that will eradicate
criminals before crime is committed
all the company for about a week.
The simple truth is that, if some men
live without working and on robbery and "get away with it," they will celebrate to an English friend—
"Our harvest being gotten in in our Hubby: "And so you are the lady who is giving my wife painting lessons? What sort of a pupil is she?"

The Lady: "Well I find her very apt, to say the least."
"That's funny, I always find her very apt to say the most!"

from want, that we wish you partakers of our plenty."

History records that in 1763 Halifax proclaimed a day of Thanksgiving to mark the peace that made Canada a British possession. Thirty-two years later, in 1795, Washington, first President of the United States, issued the first national Thanksgiving proclamation of that country.

It is recorded that Canada's first annual Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed on October 9, 1879, and observed on November 6. A proclamation has been issued every year since then.

The phraseology of the yearly Thanksgiving Day proclamations of the Dominion has altered little since Victoria the Good, the Marquis of Lorne and the others, now dead and gone, who caused the original to be documented, now occurs the words
"and we do appoint Armistice Day, Monday the tenth day of November next, as a day of general Thanksgiving." Since the days are combined in the manner stated, for observance on the Monday of the week in which the eleventh of November occurs, the actual date varies from year to year, but the principle is maintained.

FRENCH IN ALL SCHOOLS

The Calgary Herald advocates the compulsory teaching of French in all the schools of the Dominion, and it gives its reasons:

Our English-speaking people have been slow to learn French. It is a language not difficult to learn. Mastery of it would open new avenues of thought and new opportunities to all.
More than that does not now sufficiently exist. Misunderstandings spring from ignorance. With understanding would come fuller appreciation of the aspirations of our French-speaking "countrymen" and sympathy for their difficulties. In a multi-linguage country it would be decidedly to the advantage of the individual and helpful to the welfare of the state for as many as possible to know both languages.

Pedagogy is also on the side of early teaching, apart from considerations of national policy and Canadian unity. In the case of French it is even more advisable to begin instruction with the very young than in the case of Latin.
Latin pronunciation presents no special difficulties, and Latin is not studied except by a limited circle, for oral use but with French it is different. The student whose mother tongue is English, for example may never be able to acquire a correct French accent unless he is "taught young". It is a matter of the plasticity of the local mechanism. Certain French vowel sounds simply cannot properly be reproduced unless the organs of speech are trained when they have still the flexibility of childhood. If the acquisition of French by all English-speaking Canadians is desirable, as it surely is, the teaching should be begun in the elementary schools. There is a growing body of opinion in favor of such a course in the English-Canadian provinces, and the only valid objection seems to be the danger of overcrowding the curriculum.

BULLETIN FROM PROVINCIAL GOVT.

Coal Commission

Appointment of a commission to make investigation of the coal mining industry in Alberta in accordance with the decision made at last session of the legislature, is announced by the provincial government. The members of the commission are H. M. E. Evans, Edmonton, chairman; R. G. Drinnan, Edmonton; and Frank Wheatley, Blairmore.

Livestock Exhibits for Shows

Alberta will be represented at Toronto and Chicago livestock shows this winter by some of the best stock in the west. Selection of animals for these exhibits have been made by the committee, appointed by the government for that purpose, and the following breeders in the province will be represented, no more entries being now taken; E. P. Ranch and W. C. Short will exhibit shorthorns; Frank Collicut, Crossfield and Boggs of Daysland will exhibit Herefords; S. Henderson and the Lacombe Experimental Farm will send Aberdeen Angus, Davenport of Acme, the Bar U and the E. P. Ranch will send Percherons; the Lacombe Experimental Farm will send shires and a Clyde filly; Weaver Bros. Lloydminster will send Clydes; and W. Urquhart of Crossfield will send a Belgian mare.

Port Vermilion Returns Good Record

Thrashing returns from nine farmers in the vicinity of Port Vermilion on the Peace River, 400 miles north of Edmonton, received at the Department of Agriculture, show an average yield of wheat for the past season among these nine farmers of 20 bushels an acre. Wheat has been grown at this far northern Alberta point for 20 years.

Thrashing Machines Registered.

A total of 4400 thrashing rigs have now been registered with the Department of Agriculture to date. In comparison with 4700 at the same date of 1923. Owners of separators who have not yet registered for the present season are urged to do so at once. Registration fee is $1.00

First Party of Boys Arrive.

The first party of young Britishers to come to Alberta under the new plan of the Alberta Government and the British Overseas Settlement Board, whereby training in practical agriculture will be given at one of the schools of agriculture arrived at Vermilion Alberta, the past week, to commence their training. The young men are of the finest type possible to select from the many application received and they average in age about 22 years. They will receive their practical training at the school of agriculture at Vermilion, which is 150 miles East of Edmonton on the Canadian National Railway. The instructor in charge will be W. J. Elliott. Another party is expected to arrive before Christmas.

Fall Stock Show.

The fall show and sale of livestock will be held in Calgary the coming week, when the annual meeting of the various livestock associations of the Alberta Swine Breeders' Association, the Alberta Hereford Breeders' and the Alberta Sheep Breeders

Calf Clubs in South

Boys and Girls of the Lethbridge and district calf feeding club will put 35 calves on special feeding starting November 15, following inspection of the calves. This club has made considerable progress.

Alberta Bee Keepers.

Alberta now has more than 120 bee keepers according to lists which have been obtained by the Department of Agriculture. Compilation of statistics as to the amount of honey produced is now proceeding

SALE OF EXTRACTS IS NOW LICENSED

Retail sale of extracts and essences in Alberta of more than 2½ proof spirits will now be under special license, save certain extracts which are prohibited entirely except by government vendors. The licenses will be issued by the Liquor Control Board to such persons as are approved by them. The license fee will be fifty cents.

The following extracts are prohibited altogether, save through government vendors:—(Preparations prepared according to formula of the British Pharmacopoeia, Any combination of alcohol with ether, tincture of orange compound tincture of cardamom, compound tincture of lavender, tincture of lemon, tincture of ginger, orange wine, iron wine, wine of iron citrate.

Sale of extracts by licensed retailers must be in containers of not more than five ounces.

The new regulations concerning extracts are contained in an order published in the issue of the Alberta Gazette under date of November 1.

SALVATION ARMY WILL APPEAL FOR FUNDS

WINNIPEG—The following was issued by Salvation Army headquarters here.

"In the interview with Commissioner Lamb, Wednesday night, on the subject of the Salvation Army's effort to place boys and young men upon the land in the Dominion, a mistaken impression is made by the suggestion that a sum of 250,000 pounds had been set aside out of the general funds of the Army for the immigration scheme.

"The plan is, as outlined by General Bramwell Booth, that if the government will provide the land, the Army will make an appeal for funds to carry out the scheme. If the sum of $200,000 is forthcoming, General Booth will undertake to find another $50,000 to make up the required amount."

Wife: "My dear Henry don't harbor the thought that I am ignorant. I know a good deal more than I care to tell."

Hubby: "I wish, my dear, that you would acquire more of that sort of knowledge."

GRISTING

We are prepared to handle wheat as fast as it comes in. We have a stock of "QUEEN OF THE WEST" FLOUR on hand. Last year we gristed over 60,000 bushels of wheat, and let every farmer have his grist home the day he brought it. We return 38 lbs. "QUEEN OF THE WEST" FLOUR and 21 lbs of Bran and Shorts for each bushel of Clean No. 1 Wheat. A little less flour and more bran and shorts for the lower grades.

Our charges are 30¢ a bushel, or milling. You can pay us cash, or we will take wheat for this.

Any farmer who does not get his year's supply of Flour, bran and shorts from his own wheat makes a big mistake, as the probabilities are that flour will be very much higher and feed be scarce

sent aboard one of the ships of the fleet.

She left him, and thereafter, with Wolverstone, leaning upon the rail, he watched the approach of that boat, manned by a dozen sailors and commanded by a scarlet figure seated stiffly in the stern, sheets. The deputy proved to be an officer named, Calverley.

His air, as he stepped into the waist of the Arabella, was haughty, truculent, and disdainful.

Blood the King's commission now in his pocket, and Lord Julian standing beside him, waited to receive him and Captain Calverley was a little taken aback at finding himself confronted by two men so very different outwardly from anything that he had expected.

"Good-day to you, sir," Blood hailed him pleasantly. "I have the honor to give you welcome aboard the Arabella. My name is Blood—Captain Blood, at your service. You may have heard of me."

"It's your surrender I require, my man, not your impudence," Calverley deprecated. Captain Blood appeared surprised, pained. He turned in appeal to Lord Julian.

"Dye hear that now? And did ye ever hear the like? But what did I tell ye? Ye see, the young gentleman's under a misapprehension entirely. Perhaps it'll save broken bones if your lordship explains just who and what I am."

"I have the honor to inform you, sir," he said stiffly, "that Captain Blood holds a commission in the King's service under the seal of my Lord Sunderland, His Majesty's Secretary of State."

"And who the devil may you be?" "You're not very civil, sir, as I have already noticed. My name is Wade—Lord Julian Wade I am His Majesty's envoy to these barbarous parts, and my Lord Sunderland's near kinsman. Colonel Bishop has been notified of my coming."

"I believe that he has, said Calverley, between doubt and suspicion. "That is that he has been notified of the coming of Lord Julian Wade. But... but... aboard this ship "If Captain Blood will show you his commission, perhaps that will set all doubts at rest," concluded his lordship.

Captain Blood thrust a parchment under Calverley's bulging eyes. "I must return to Colonel Bishop for my orders," he informed them.

At that moment a lane was opened in the ranks of the men, and through this came Miss Bishop, followed by her octonous woman. Over her shoulder Captain Blood observed her approach.

"Perhaps, since Colonel Bishop is with you, you will convey his niece to him. Miss Bishop was aboard the Royal Mary, and I rescued her, together with his lordship. She will be able to acquaint her uncle with the details of that and of the present state of affairs."

"As for me, said Lord Julian, with intent to make Miss Bishop's departure free from all interference on the part of the buccaners, "I shall remain aboard the Arabella until we reach Port Royal. My compliments to Colonel Bishop. Say that I look forward to making his acquaintance there."

It is the easiest thing in the world to do the right when there is nothing to be done.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

A quack doctor was holding forth about his medicines to an attentive audience.

"I have sold these pills for the last twenty years," he said, "and I have never yet had a complaint. Now what does that prove?"

A voice in the crowd replied: "Dead men tell no tales."

Wife: "Oh, dear, did you miss a step?"

Husband (who is lying at the foot of the stairs): "No, my dear, I hit every blessed one of them."

$60, well if you gave five of the cashier's ten to your partner that would be honesty."

Nothing needs a lie—except a lie.

Don't expect to build a new reputation on the ruins of an old one.

"Well, and what do you think of your uncle?" asked a genial visitor, referring to himself.

The child remained obstinately silent.

"Why won't you say?" persisted the visitor.

"Because I don't want to get liked!" was the prudent response.

A company parade was ordered, when all the men were in position the N.C.O. called out: "All men who are fond of music take two paces forward."

Instantly half-a-dozen soldiers, with visions of playing in the regimental band, stepped forward.

"Now," he roared, "you six men bring that piano down from the officer's quarters to the sergeant's mess in the basement."

"What made you give up business in America and come to London?"

"I heard there were some big openings here!"

"Have you fallen into anything good yet?"

"Yes; the first opening I fell in was one in the road—six feet deep."

The employer called for his secretary.

"Here, Jenks, look at this letter. I can't make out whether it's from my tailor or my solicitor. They're both named Smith."

And this is what Jenks read:—"I have begun your snit. Ready to be tried on Thursday:—Smith."

Sandy: How is your cold, to day, Mac?"

Mac: "Very obstinate."

"How's your wife?"

"About the same."
